

Americans Pushed Back From Kum River; Speed Expected in Mobilizing Resources

2 Generals Report to Pentagon

State Department Is Urging Quick Move in Marshalling Our Industry

'Do Damn Well'

Some National Guards and Reserves Are to Be Called

Washington, July 15 (AP)—The chiefs of staff of the army and air force flew back from Korea today with the word that "our troops are doing damn well there, and everything will come out all right."

Their return from the war theatre was expected to speed up President Truman's decision on what to do about mobilizing American resources.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief, stepped off the plane with Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief, in a driving rain at 7:35 a. m. (E.S.T.) at the military airport, after a four and a half day flying trip to Japan and the Korean battlefield.

Collins told newsmen that "you know more about what has happened in the last 24 hours than we do." It was he who expressed the optimistic summary of the situation in the war area.

Both Are Silent
Neither general would say anything about the nature of the recommendations they will make as to stepping up support for the American fighting the Communists in South Korea.

The army and air force chiefs landed in Washington Monday night with the announced intention of finding out on the spot how best the Defense Department and armed services could support Gen. Douglas MacArthur's elements in Korea.

Collins and Vandenberg were expected to report immediately to the Pentagon and to the White House. Calling up some National Guards and organized reserve units may follow shortly.

The President was brought up to date on the military situation at a morning conference with Gen. D. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Bradley declined to comment when he left the White House.

Meanwhile the State Department is urging the White House to move quickly on marshalling more of the nation's industrial resources—both to bolster the Korean campaign for the long pull and to strengthen America's total military power against the possibility of other crises.

Plan Big Program
The Defense Department is reported planning a greatly expanded military program to accomplish the same purposes.

Evidence that action along these lines may be forthcoming promptly came from two members of Congress.

Senator Robertson (D.-Va.) told the Senate yesterday the ad-

Probers Piece Together New Findings in Crime Inquiry

Auto Industry Is Not Now Engaged in Armament Work

Detroit, July 15 (AP)—The auto industry right now has no armament work growing out of the Korean war.

It is ready to put all its industrial might into a war job if the occasion requires. But it first must know precisely what its various plants will be asked to build.

Until that time comes the car manufacturers are making no changes in their planning. They are continuing their plans to maintain high model car introductions later this year as originally scheduled.

Such are the realities of virtually every automobile maker to numerous inquiries as to what effect the Asiatic situation may have on their peacetime production programs.

It is true that just about every automobile plant has been surveyed to determine what kind of arms production it best is fitted for. It is also true the closest possible liaison is being maintained between auto industry and military procurement.

But, industry executives say, what eventually is needed may be entirely different from what is-

Thruway Speedup Means Earlier Road to Kingston

Continuation of the thruway from Saugerties to Kingston likely will start within two months, according to Senator Arthur H. Wicks.

The State Senate majority leader gave this information to the press after talking Friday with Bertram D. Tallamy, superintendent of the State Department of Public Works.

Wicks said that the gigantic road network to run from New York to Buffalo likely would be completed ahead of schedule as a security measure.

The Senator and Tallamy discussed the thruway with Governor Dewey as they rode together in the motorcade from Catskill to Saugerties, following dedication ceremonies for the 10 miles of highway between the villages.

Governor Dewey cut the ribbon opening the portion of the thruway.

The project was planned as a four-year job, but probably will be completed in three, he advised.

lieve peacetime motor travel, would be most essential for troop movements to evacuate the populace from crowded city areas in the event that the Korean war spreads and is brought to U. S. shores.

In his speech at the Catskill dedication, Dewey said "the U. S. Defense Department considered the $450,000,000 state thruway essential to our safety."

The governor pointed out that: "In any period of world-wide aggression, transportation is one of the first essentials of defense," the governor asserted. He added: "It is also a first essential for offense if we should ever be attacked."

"Our present highway system was held back first by the depression and then by World War 2. It is totally out of date."

"Our highway system would be tragically inadequate if it suddenly became necessary to move large numbers of troops and military vehicles through New York state. It would be even more tragically inadequate if we should have to evacuate our millions of people from the great centers of population."

Florida Sheriff Admits Assets Spiraled From $2,500 to $75,000 in Six Years

Miami, Fla., July 15 (AP)—The pattern of south Florida's giant gambling operations — and the staggering sums of money used to make the illegal wheel spin — is being pieced together by a Senate investigation committee.

Sen. Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), Sen. Hunt (D.-Wyo.) and his corps of counsels, investigators and volunteer workers are conducting the investigation.

In yesterday's session these developments were brought out: 1. Harry V. Russell, partner of the S. & G. Syndicate of Miami Beach and linked with Chicago gang operations, returned his subpoena with the comment that the "Binaggio case history" illustrated his point. (Charles Binaggio and Charles Gargotta were both shot to death last May in Kansas City.)

2. Sheriff Jimmy Sullivan of Dade county acknowledged that his assets spiraled from $2,500 in 1944, when he became sheriff, to more than $75,000 in 1950. He disclosed that U. S. Internal Bureau of Revenue agents were checking his income tax returns for the years 1943 through 1950.

3. Meyer Schine, operator of luxury hotels in Florida, Massachusetts, New Jersey and California, told of selling the bookie concession at the plush Roney Plaza Hotel on Miami Beach to big time bookmaker Frank Erickson for $40,000.

4. Lou Wolfson, a Jacksonville millionaire associated with the Washington, D. C., bus system, and C. V. Griffin, a citrus grower, told of contributing more than $150,000 each to Gov. Fuller Warren's 1948 political campaign.

5. A former Dade county sheriff's deputy said he was fired by Sheriff Sullivan for enforcing the gambling laws.

Word from Russell, one of 10 witnesses unheard from at the outset of the first public hearing away from Washington, came through his attorney, Luis Kuntner, at Chicago.

Previous testimony has linked Russell with the Capone gang. Sullivan testified yesterday his assets as of July 12, 1950, totaled $77,217.78 that he had either bought or built 11 houses since he became sheriff and had a $32,000 home and $37,628 in cash. (The Sheriff's salary when Sullivan took office was $7,500, it was boosted to $10,000 in 1948 and to $12,000 in 1949.)

Asked by Sen. Kefauver how his

Kerhonkson Man Gets His $2,100 Back Following Ad

Maynard DeWitt Rewards Finder With $200 in Appreciation; Keeps Name Secret

The $2,100 which Maynard DeWitt of Kerhonkson lost in this city Thursday afternoon was returned to him Friday evening.

DeWitt, overjoyed at recovering the large sum of money, presented the finder with a $200 reward. For several reasons, including the time at which the money was returned, DeWitt today credited directly the classified advertisement and the news item which appeared in Thursday's Freeman for a major part in the money's return.

While praising the honesty of the finder, DeWitt today declined to reveal his name without his express permission, as DeWitt had promised in the advertisement that "no questions" would be asked. For the same reason, it was not ascertained exactly where the money was found.

The money, consisting of one $500 bill and 16 $100 bills was contained in a wallet with operator's license, social security card and extra car key. The wallet was returned intact, DeWitt said. He explained that he was carrying the sum of money "to help out a veteran" in a transaction where a check would not suffice.

India Offers Solution

London, July 15 (AP)—India has told America and Russia she thinks the first step ending the Korean war quickly is to have Communist China admitted to the United Nations. Commonwealth officials said today this Ministry of External Affairs' personal message to Prime Minister Stalin and Secretary of State Dean Acheson yesterday. All indications in Washington are that the United States will have nothing to do with the idea.

Bohan Endorsed for State Legion

Ulster county may be represented in the Department of New York for the first time since the organization of the American Legion if plans materialize to elect one of this area's most prominent Legionnaires.

Thomas Bohan, of Ulster Park, a past commander of Kingston Post and the Ulster County American Legion, has the unanimous endorsement of both organizations to seek the nomination for vice commander at the state convention in Syracuse, August 9 through 12.

Besides being a past commander of the both Legion organizations, Bohan is chief de gare passe of Ulster County Volture, La Societe 40 & 8.

At the caucus preceding the convention, Bohan and his Ulster backers will need delegates from the five other counties in the Third District—Columbia, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Greene and Sullivan.

The Fourth District is expected to join with the third in its bid for a vice commander this year, according to Bohan and his Ulster backers will need delegates from the five other counties in the Third District—Columbia, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Greene and Sullivan.

Brilliant Record
The past commander of Kingston Post has a brilliant record as a Legionnaire. It was pointed out when he won the endorsement by resolution of the local unit and the county Legion.

After Kingston Post elected him to the command in 1944, following a term as vice commander, he showed progressive leadership. Not only did the membership skyrocket, but activities increased with a flare that made the public "Legion conscious." The annual Armistice ball was supported to an extent that raised $3,240.95 for the post.

Americanism was one of his

Natives Speed up Unloading U. S. Airplanes to Halt Push

By O. H. P. KING

Tokyo, July 15 (AP)—The men staging the airlift to Korea think it's bigger than the lift to Berlin last year.

Whether it is or not, only official sources can say, and that's military information of value to the enemy.

I saw a part of that airlift when I returned to Japan from Korea. C-47s arrive and depart on a Korean air strip every few minutes. Teams of Koreans with trucks unload the airplanes with a speed and efficiency inspired by the realization the cargoes will help push back the enemy.

There is not wasted talk. The emptied planes take off even as the loaded trucks start off the strip.

Bumping a ride back to Japan therefore is easy.

While I was walking the length of the airstrip two C-47s took off. I caught a third.

Our crew of four consisted of Lt. Joe H. Copeland, Dallas, Texas; Lt. Frank B. Perry, Jacksonville, Fla.; Tech. Sgt. Dale McHenry, Fairbury, Neb.; and Tech. Sgt. Charles Armstrong, Dallas. ("Say, Joe, I didn't know you were from Dallas, too.")

"We make about three trips every day," McHenry said. "We certainly are piling the stuff in—it's got the Berlin airlift beat all hollow."

"But the guys you gotta give credit are the fighter pilots. For the life of me, I can't see how those Communies can keep going. Their airplanes are practically useless, their railroads and bridges are blasted, and their supply lines are hit with the big stuff day after day. They can't hold out much longer."

After a pause he added: "How they've gotten so far south beats me. They must have had supply caches hidden along the way. But they're on a one-way road with no back-tracking. They'll never see North Korea again."

"Those fighter pilots will turn the trick," McHenry concluded, "but it's a team operation and everybody's essential."

Gen. J. Lawton Collins (left), U. S. Army chief of staff, shakes hands with Gen. Douglas MacArthur after presenting him with the U.N. flag in a ceremony in Tokyo. The standard is the same that flew over the Palestine headquarters of the late Count Folke Bernadotte. (NEA Telephoto via army radiophoto.)

Replies Awaited By U.N. Countries For Fighting Help

Lake Success, July 15 (AP)—America and the rest of the United Nations watched anxiously today for replies from 52 U.N. members to Secretary-General Trygve Lie's call for all-out fighting aid to stem the Red invasion of South Korea.

Lie expressed his concern over the U.N. situation in Korea at a press conference yesterday. He made it clear he expects every one of the U.N. members except the dissenting Soviet bloc and Communist Yugoslavia to help turn back the North Korean Reds and restore peace in that divided land. Lie does not expect troops from every one of the 52 countries. (Continued on Page 10, Col. 4)

Stories Bring Bans on Correspondents; One by Lambert Here for Readers

Tokyo, July 15 (AP)—U. S. Army authorities today abruptly told Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert and United Press Correspondent Peter Kallischer that they could not return to the South Korea war front.

Later Col. M. P. Echols, General MacArthur's public information officer, told the Associated Press Bureau that some of Lambert's dispatches had been objectionable because "they gave aid and comfort to the enemy." (The following story was written by Tom Lambert shortly after his return to Tokyo from the Korean battlefield.)

By TOM LAMBERT

Tokyo, July 15 (AP)—Somewhere in Korea along the edge of a night-cloaked battlefield, an air force sergeant rigid with concentration sat hunched over a radio key.

With a staccato, machinegun clicks, the sergeant was pounding out a call for aircraft to evacuate Americans from a Communist-threatened city.

Double Lavatories Increase Efficiency Of New Bathrooms

An increasing number of new homes are being equipped with two lavatories in the bathroom, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports.

First suggested by the plumbing industry some years ago as a means of increasing the usefulness of the bathroom, the idea of twin lavatories has definitely "caught on," the bureau declares.

The lavatory is the most-used fixture in the bathroom. Doubling the number of lavatories, therefore, greatly increases the utility of the bathroom without adding greatly to space requirements or to cost.

If the size of the bathroom permits, lavatories should be installed side by side. There is some economy in piping in this arrangement as compared with having two lavatories on opposite walls. Each lavatory should be equipped with its own medicine cabinet with individual lighting.

The idea of twin lavatories is just as practical for existing bathrooms that are to be modernized as for new bathrooms. The only difference is that in older houses the size of the bathroom is often limited and there may not be room for two lavatories.

In this case, the installation of a lavatory in a bedroom or hall end may often help to relieve the traffic in the main bathroom.

Losing Loose Bristles

Any new paint or varnish brush may have a few loose bristles. These can be easily removed by tapping the brush gently against the hand and twisting it rapidly between the palms. Any loose bristles which appear in the process can then be pulled out. Finally, the bristles should be combed straight.

Safety Factors For the Kitchen Need Stressing

Mishaps and accidents, unpleasant enough in any part of the home, are more likely to be dangerous in the kitchen than any other room. Almost one of every five persons hospitalized for home injuries is hurt in the kitchen, safety records reveal.

Fortunately, safety can be planned into the kitchen along with comfort, and the two qualities as a matter of fact usually go together, says a Tile Council of America report.

Too-High Shelves a Hazard
A definite accident preventive in kitchens is the proper placing of cupboards and shelving, the report points out. Many serious falls result from attempts to reach articles on too high shelves. Most homemakers can reach a top shelf not more than six feet above the floor, and that maximum is therefore usually recommended.

Storage of the stepladder in the basement or utility room is the indirect cause of many kitchen accidents, says the report. If very high shelves are needed, an excellent plan is to provide a definite space in the kitchen itself for the stepladder, so that it will be used instead of a chair or other makeshift climbing support.

Fatigue greatly increases the possibility of accidents. Labor saving equipment, walls finished with such easily cleaned materials and work surfaces at proper heights are therefore definite contributions to kitchen safety, the report points out.

Range Location Important
The location of the range plays a major role in safety. It is best placed away from traffic, so that vessels on it will not be accidentally hit or the oven door opened into an area where someone may be passing. A panel back of the range finished with tile provides good insurance against fire and is easily kept free of grease.

Finally, adequate lighting is a "must." Lights over the sink and other work surfaces both improve kitchen working conditions and lessen the chance of accidents says the report.

How to Store Eggs
Moscow, Idaho (AP)—Eggs ought to be stored in the case with the little end down, reports the College of Agriculture here. In the big end of an egg there is an air sac. If this end is kept up, the air sac stands less chance of being damaged.

Economy Grades Of Flooring Also Give Long Wear

If you are planning to build and want to keep materials costs as low as possible, here's a tip: Hardwood flooring is made in a number of types and grades. The cost, naturally, varies with the grade. Serviceability, however, is virtually the same in all grades. The selection of a lower grade will save money without sacrifice of structural strength or wearing qualities.

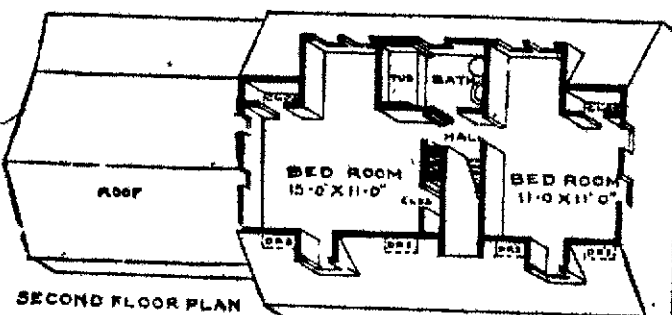

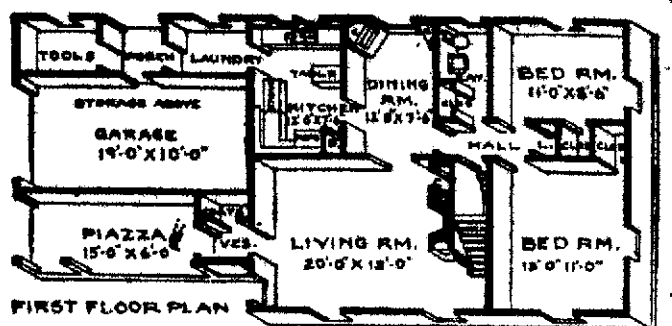

Hardwood floorings are carefully graded at the mills. The grading is based mainly on appearance. Factors considered are such characteristics as knots, streaks and other natural variations. In strength, durability and resistance to wear all grades rank high.

There are three grades of quarter-sawn oak and four of plain-sawn. Quarter-sawn flooring is cut from the log at an angle which brings out the full beauty of the large flaky figures known as wood rays. Because less work is entailed in its manufacture, plain-sawn oak flooring is more economical. Designations of plain-sawn grades, in descending order, are clear, select, No. 1 common and No. 2 common. The quarter-sawn grades are clear, sap clear and select.

Kitchen Ventilating Fan
The kitchen ventilating fan must be cleaned at frequent intervals to prevent accumulations of grease impairing its efficiency. The easiest method, suggested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is to disconnect the current and wipe the fan and walls around it with a cloth wrung out in kerosene.

Three-Way Switches
Greater convenience and safety can be provided in the home by installing three-way electric switches beside front and back doors. This will enable kitchen and living-room lights to be turned on and off at either door when entering or leaving the house.

Switch Saves Light
A switch which indicates when the light in a closet or cellar is on will save the experience of opening a door and finding that the light has been burning needlessly for hours.

Taking a Cape Cod cottage design as a base and combining it with the American farmhouse style, the Home of the Week Plan Service has come up with a house plan called "The Winsted" which seems to offer all that could be desired in modern living comfort and convenience.

The trellis-embellished porch serves to relieve the severity of the simple exterior. If the owners so desire, this cottage can be built in three stages, with the body of the house as the first phase of construction, the garage wing the second, and the finishing of the second floor rooms as the final chapter.

If this program is contemplated, however, it should be kept in mind from the outset, and due consideration should be given to the size of the finished house the installation of heating and water pipes to the second floor, etc. These details should be worked out with the contractor so that they may be incorporated in the specifications.

The completed house and wing have an over-all length of 32 feet, so that the lot should have a frontage of not less than 70 feet. The main house measures 32x28 feet and has a cubage of 17,500 feet. The wing is 20 feet long and has a cubage of 6,000 feet.

A laundry room, off the kitchen and convenient to the back-yard area, is large enough to accommodate a modern washing machine and ironer. If the owners prefer, this room could be planned as a dinette for informal meals. Overhead space is provided in the garage for storm windows and screens.

The front vestibule of The Winsted, with its coat closet, is so placed that it takes up no space in the main dwelling, being built out from the garage wing and protected by the porch. A regular Colonial door may be used here but a Dutch door, with the upper half glazed, would be more interesting.

The vestibule and 20x13-foot living room are connected by an open arch. At the far end of the living room is a fireplace. Back of the fireplace chimney are the stairs to the second floor. At the left of the fireplace is a closet for card tables and games.

At the right of the fireplace, beside the lower landing of the stairs, a niche built into the chimney wall adds a decorative note.

Large Windows Bring New Style In Room Colors

Because 20 to 30 per cent more window area is used in the average home built today than in that of 20 years ago, the modern decorative trend is toward dark-colored walls, reports the Construction Research Bureau of New York, clearing house for building information.

Oversized windows admit so much more light that homes are no longer limited to light-toned walls, bureau experts say. Darker wall treatment stems from the trend of the popular picture window, which in some homes is 16 feet long and 8 feet high. Picture windows are now being used also in bedrooms, kitchen and children's rooms.

With the trend to darker walls has also come the use of color schemes employing combinations of warm colors and cool colors in the same room instead of a single color for all four walls.

Complementary colors should be used judiciously. A small dash of vibrant orange counteracts a much larger portion of cool color such as green. Colors should be balanced so that stimulating warm colors do not overpower soothing cool colors.

Outlet in Front Best For Iron Cord Plug

The best spot for your electric iron cord plug has been determined scientifically in the laboratory. Set the outlet to the front of the board, about 36 inches above the board on the wall faced by the worker.

This spot was found ideal after tests in the Oregon Experiment Station, reported to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A ceiling outlet is convenient for ironing, but specialists warn that most light fixtures do not carry enough current for an iron and if such an outlet is used the wires may overheat.

The Oregon studies showed a cord five and a half feet long is needed when the outlet is on the wall facing the worker, and six feet if plugged in on the wall to her right, the second-best position for right-handed women.

Right Use of Paintbrush
Brushes should not be dipped too deeply into the paint, incidentally—just far enough so that after tapping or "wiping" lightly against the inner side of the container, they will carry the paint to the job without dripping. Dipping too deeply not only wastes paint, but soon impairs a brush by causing a collection of hardened paint to accumulate at the part of the brush nearest the ferrule.

After patching a crack in a plaster wall, it is not a good idea to sand the patch down. Sanding will make the plaster porous and

PROWLERS AT LARGE

The appearance of prowlers in certain sections of the city calls for cooperation upon the part of the public if the perpetrators are to be apprehended.

The police department asks all persons seeing prowlers on their property to notify the police immediately. Time is of the essence in tracing down this morose individuals. Don't raise an outcry or flash on lights, the police warn, as these actions only scare away the intruders and preclude the chances of the police catching them.

Upon seeing a prowler on your premises immediately call the police, try to obtain a clear description and observe the direction in which they travel, the police advise.

The frightening of people in this manner, and especially the young and the aged, is a serious matter. The place for these mentally twisted characters is one far removed from society. But first they must be caught. And if cooperation will do the trick, it behooves everyone to follow the suggestions offered by the police.

Who would have thought a generation ago that the United States would ever be interested in anything that happened in Korea? Equally unlikely in those days was the possibility that we would be maintaining air bases in Iceland and Greenland.

THE RUSH TO BUY

One of the peculiarities of human behavior in the face of a sudden crisis is the urge to get immediately an extra supply of something which might become scarce. The understandable war jitters which followed the outbreak of war in Korea led to sugar buying which in a few localities became a full-scale rush. Sugar was a rationed commodity in the two world wars; apparently the first thought which crossed some minds was to get extra sugar into the pantry, to be prepared in case war should come again.

The urge to lay in a stock at the moment when trouble threatens is a little selfish; it's action on the thought, "Come what may, I'll have sugar", or coffee, or whatever it may be. If there is not then a shortage, the sudden surge of buying is very likely to create one. It upsets the normal routine of supply and sends prices upward. And it is unlikely that the ordinary householder, following this quick urge to buy in an emergency, can lay in enough of a stock to carry through real trouble.

Whether it's a matter of having a little food laid by or keeping the family car in good shape so that it will run an extra year or two if necessary, the time to prepare for a storm is while the sky is serene. Even a family living on a close budget can accumulate a store of emergency food good for a week or two, longer in the case of staples, just by adding a can or two a week through ordinary times. The family which has done this does not need to rush to the store for a sack of sugar when there is a war scare. Those who make some preparation when trouble is far away are able to help maintain a sense of calm in the hour when trouble threatens. Those who rush to denude the grocer's shelves add to the fright of that hour.

A weary body at the end of the day usually denotes a mind and spirit at peace, with a sense of accomplishment. If not, why not?

DANGER IN THE HOME

"Every four seconds somebody is temporarily disabled by a minor home injury. One person every four minutes is permanently disabled in the country, and an average of one person dies every fifteen minutes due to home injuries. The record is not improving and the average home is still rated as the most perilous place in the country today."

These hard facts were set forth by P. C. Hartford, president of the Northern Ohio Druggists Association, in a recent speech. Several ways of preventing accidents and of alleviating their effects were outlined in the same speech. Among them were proper ventilation of gas-heated rooms, keeping stair-

STATE CAPITALISM

Earl Browder, who for many years was the head of the Communist Party of the United States and who recently testified to his intimate relations with the White House, has been pamphleteering against the current agents of the Kremlin in this country. Browder still attests himself as a Communist but not in good standing, as he has been expelled from his party.

Apparently, Browder was useful to his cause during the war years when Soviet Russia needed American assistance, but he was ditched with the onset of the cold war. It seems, from his testimony, that during those war years, he was a big shot in our government, having much to say about policy. He only intimated that before the Tydings Committee. It would be interesting to know more.

Browder, in his pamphlet, "Keynes, Foster and Marx," devotes a chapter to "The Rise of State Capitalism, 1933-1949." He says:

"State capitalism leaped forward to a new high point in America in the decade 1933-1949. It became overwhelmingly predominant in every major phase of economic life, and changed the face of politics."

"After the war, with the lifting of some forms of state controls, there was a certain slowing up of the tempo of this development, but not a change in direction. State capitalism in substance if not in formal aspects, has progressed farther in America than in Great Britain under the Labor Government, despite its nationalization of certain industries, which is a formal stage not yet reached in America, the actual, substantial concentration of the guiding reins of national economy, in governmental hands is probably on a higher level in the U. S. A."

Browder also makes the point:

"That which is called 'socialism' in Britain is no more than state capitalism, the government is collective manager for the former owners, who are guaranteed bigger and steadier returns on their capital than could be gained under private management. It is a 'step toward socialism,' but only in the same sense that is true of state capitalism and 'the welfare state' in America, or even of the rise of great private trusts and monopolies."

If I wrote this, some might say that it is the voice of big business or the warblings of a reactionary, or just a die-hard Republican hating the welfare state. Browder, however, is an out-of-the-box Communist who is pamphleteering against his enemies in the style of Marx and Engels. He seeks what he and his colleagues call scientific objectivity and the regard what he sees not as something to be dreaded and feared, but progress toward perfection. He is proud of it, as though it were his personal achievement. He accepts state capitalism and the welfare state as steps forward toward his ideal, communism, although forsooth, they are slow steps.

Therefore, we need to note his claim that state capitalism—which most of us cannot not differentiate from socialism—has moved so far in the United States that it has done better here than in Great Britain where about 20 per cent of the economy has already been nationalized.

Apparently, such an appraisal of the rise of Marxism finds an apparatus in the controls in this country set up by the New Deal and the Fair Deal which reach the same end by a variety of subtle means. Perhaps our nationalization, he anticipates, will come all at once.

Thus, the income tax becomes a factor in the reduction of the role of private enterprise, even as Marx and Engels proposed that it should be in "the Communist manifesto." The increasing dependence of big business upon the government for orders and the control of the price structure by government buying is an excellent method for reducing private enterprise. But the best method is undoubtedly the direct government of little business, the lessening of opportunities to rise out of the wage-earning to the self-employed class.

That in itself could work a revolution in a country where equality of opportunity is the principal determinant of the social system.

It would be interesting to invite Mr. Browder to tell more. If he told all he knew about what went on in this country from 1933 to 1949, the benefits to the country could be very real. And he knows more than most do.

FUNCTIONAL HEART MURMURS

When a parent, especially a mother, learns that her son (or daughter) has a heart murmur she is naturally worried, as she has been told that heart murmur is caused by a leaking valve. Even though the family physician assures her that the murmur is not caused by organic heart disease, she is still afraid to let the youngster play or take part in games.

As a matter of fact the boy or girl with a non-organic heart murmur should really play, as play strengthens the heart and lungs, whereas lack of play or lack of exercise prevents development of the entire chest.

In "California Medicine," San Francisco, Dr. M. B. Harrison states that some years ago all systolic murmurs, functional or organic were considered serious and play or exercise was forbidden. Later, however, none of these systolic murmurs (murmurs occurring with first beat of the heart) were considered serious and the child was encouraged to play.

Harrison considers that the truth lies somewhere between these two views. He reports a review based on observations in the Children's Cardiac Diagnostic Clinic of the San Francisco Health Department. As a guide in distinguishing between organic and functional murmurs, five characteristics of a murmur should be noted: location, intensity, character, transmission of murmur in any direction from the heart, and how long the murmur lasts in proportion to other sounds or silences.

It was found that in functional systolic murmur (not due to any change in structure of the heart) the murmur or murmurs are faint, soft and blowing in quality only slightly transmitted away from the heart and not heard after the first heart sound.

In doubtful cases a heart specialist should be consulted and if organic disease is not present the youngster should be allowed to play and take part in games. It is not only the physical development that is prevented by lack of games or exercise. The youngster's mental and emotional development suffers by being considered an invalid and unable to play like other youngsters.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York, July 15 (AP)—The Reds started their march in Korea just as American industrial production hit its postwar peak. Its potential is far and away higher today than it was when Hitler started his march to destruction.

Today industry, from the largest to the smallest company, waits word expected soon from Washington as to when it is to be mobilized. The question is: Is industrial mobilization is needed at this time, is it to come all at once or piecemeal?

Industries are trying to guess: 1. Which of their employees, will be called into service, and how they are to be replaced; 2. Whether their company's production is to be controlled, their raw materials rationed, the type of goods to make changed, and so on. Whether price controls are to be clamped on the materials they buy and the products they sell, and whether their inventories are to be regulated or confiscated.

But once the uncertainty is over, leaders in almost all industries feel they are ready this time to do a bigger war production job, and in many cases a quicker one.

The Federal Reserve Board estimates its industrial production index reached 197 just before the Reds struck in Korea. This topped the previous postwar peak of 195 in the fall of 1948. And it means that the nation's industrial output is 189 per cent of its 1939-39 prewar average. This great gain in output over the days just before Hitler moved is due to the rapid expansion of the nation's industrial capacity—that is, plant and equipment—during and since the war. And here, too, the board has good news to report. Business expenditures for new plant and equipment made a big jump forward in the months just before the Reds struck. It was advancing "more than seasonally" and had reached an annual rate of $18.1 billion, almost back to where it was before the 1949 recession.

This expansion will increase American industrial potential by just that much more, when it is completed. Here are a few of the key industries and what they can do: Steel mills, at the time the Korean war started, were turning out steel at better than an annual rate of 100 million tons. Plant expansions already ordered will bring capacity up to an annual rate of 164 million tons. Back in 1939 the nation's steel capacity was $1.6 million tons. War steel raised output to a peak of 86.6 million tons in 1944. This year's peacetime output will top the best the war effort could obtain. In another total war, the production could go well above 100 million tons.

The oil industry says it could step up production immediately to more than six million barrels a day without straining and do much better if forced by an emergency. In 1939 it was producing around 3.5 million barrels a day.

Canning July 13, 1950
21 Delta Place

Editor, The Freeman:
Now that luscious fruits and health-giving vegetables are again appearing in plenty, one cannot help but express a deep regret that the continuance of the Canning Center is jeopardized.

From the many conversations I have held with fellow canners at the center, the opportunity it offered meant more food to many families who would have had to do without these health-giving canned products during the winter months.

The equipment is there, the initial cost has long been paid. It seems sheer folly to dismantle the canning center now just when new equipment is again being rationed. I believe.

Negroes Will Tell Virtues of America

New York, July 15 (AP)—Four Negroes—three from the south—will spend the next six weeks telling western Europeans that "America is the best country in the world for the Negro."

The leader of the party, Clarence King, 29, said the trip would be a "crusade against communist propaganda."

King, whose home is Richmond, Va., is a former history instructor at the Virginia Union University.

His companions are David DeBarry, Coatesville, Pa., a Virginia Union student, Roger L. Williams, Orangeburg, S. C., a student at South Carolina State College, and William Black, of Los Angeles, Calif., a student of U. C. L. A.

King said that on an earlier trip to Europe he found people had "a peculiar idea of the Negro's position in America."

"The goal of our trip is to go out into the world to crusade actively with the truth about democracy against communist propaganda, particularly from the viewpoint of the Negro American," he said.

"The Negroes thought that all Negroes in America were slaves and down-trodden. We shall contact students groups to correct the misconceptions. We shall show that America is the best country in the world for the Negro."

The party left last night aboard a Royal Dutch Airlines plane. They will visit the Netherlands, Germany, France and Switzerland.

$500,000 Fire Damage

Hampton Branch, N. H., July 15 (AP)—A $500,000 flash fire roared through 18 buildings in the heart of this popular New Hampshire seaside resort last night. It razed an entire wooden block, destroying one hotel, four restaurants, a penny arcade, four several rooming houses and other business establishments. Another hotel was damaged.

Foundation Joel Balotin was re-elected president of the board, but not without opposition. The minority vote went to Frank Muller, the latter, it is understood voting a blank ballot. For vice-president William H. Reet received the unanimous vote and was re-elected. Before voting for clerk of the board the members, by a vote said to have been 4 to 3, decided that in the future a member of the board could not serve as the paid clerk. The board then, by a vote given as 5 to 2, elected Mrs. Marian Hart clerk, to serve full time at a salary of $2,700.

His salary, which is several times what has been designated as a "part time" basis, for a salary of $1,200. According to the action taken she will have to resign as trustee if she accepts the clerical position. Placed in nomination against Mrs. Hart was Mrs. Ethel Brundage. For auditor the board named Harry Blagor, succeeding Meyer Regenbogen. Reappointed were treasurer, Harold S. # Colonial Baseball League Will Fold Sunday in Meeting at Stamford

Organized in the perennial high hopes of baseball men in 1947 and sustained by a series of red ink through four hectic seasons—the six-team, Class B, Colonial League will expire Sunday afternoon in Stamford, Conn.

The Sunday is tomorrow, July 16, 1950.

The last desperate hope of Kingston Colonial officials to complete the season with four teams—Kingston, Torrington, Bristol and Poughkeepsie—faded last night with the withdrawal of the Torrington Braves. Still hanging on the ropes admittedly with slim chance of securing a fourth franchise are the Kingston Colonials, Poughkeepsie Chiefs and Bristol Owls.

Torrington Surprises

The withdrawal of Torrington was announced last night by general manager Johnny Gentile as the Braves were dropping a 2-1 decision to the Bristol Owls. Gentile made the announcement over the public address system, saying only: "This is the last home game for Torrington Braves."

Withdrawal of Torrington, following the foldup of the Bridgeport Bees and Waterbury Tigers, came as a surprise to Kingston officials. For a 24-hour period following the "strike" of Waterbury players, the Bristol Owls were the key team in the proposed four-team setup.

Les Osterman, Wall street broker who operates the Owls, 1949 champions, finally agreed to finish the season with Torrington, Kingston and Poughkeepsie.

It is believed, in local quarters that the actions of one loud, volatile manager in the league forced the hand of Dick Cooke of Torrington.

Meeting Anti-Climactic

League President John Scialo of Stamford, admitting that the league was "in the soup" said a meeting would be held Sunday at the Roger Smith Hotel in Stamford at which arrangements for the proper disposal of the defunct organization will be discussed.

League officers consider the meeting strictly anti-climactic, since the foldup of the league was assured by the withdrawal of Torrington.

Bridgeport Leaves 75 G's

Withdrawal of the Bridgeport team was announced by President

Carl F. Brunetto, who said that his team in four years had lost $75,000. He also blamed bad weather, television and radio broadcasts of major league games for the slim attendance.

Waterbury's defect from the league was preceded by a "strike" of players who refused to ride a bus to Kingston to play a scheduled game Thursday night.

Joseph Lombardi, club president, suspended the striking players and fined each $100. Yesterday, when the team offered to call off the strike, Lombardi called off the fines, paid the team up to July 12 and bade the players God speed.

In their search for newer and greener pastures.

Stunned by the sudden developments, Kingston Colonial officials were working feverishly today to dispose of the better prospects on the local roster.

Scouts at Game

A group of major league scouts will be in the stands when the Colonials engage the Albany Senators in the exhibition game at municipal stadium tonight and it is believed likely that at least four or five players will be sold after the game.

Joe Ferro, Metropolitan scout for the Cincinnati Reds, is expected to make a final decision on a couple of players in whom the Reds have manifested interest.

Club president, Addison Jones, who has worked tirelessly in an effort to keep the Colonial League alive until the end of the 1950 campaign, said this morning that an emergency meeting of Colonial directors would be held "some time today."

Jones and several other club officials plan to attend the Colonial League meeting tomorrow in Stamford.

Future Uncertain

The Colonial president said that plans for future baseball in Kingston, if any, would be announced early next week.

"Our biggest problem now," he said, "is to dispose of what players we can. Kingston was the only club in the league that didn't unload its players."

"We, in Kingston, did everything possible to keep the Colonial League going until the end of the 1950 season. Many times we could have unloaded players but we felt that our primary obligation was to the baseball fans of Kingston and we gave them the best team possible."

McKever, Applebaum, Manopoli Will Pitch Against Albany Nine

Bob Rybinaker and Merchants Stop Dairyemen in Ninth, 7-6

Game One of Longest in Two Loop History

Bob Rybinaker and a hard fighting Colonial Merchants squad repelled Jones Dairy, 7 to 6, yesterday in one of the most exciting games in City League history.

It was one of the longest, too. The clubs battled until 3:51 p. m. when Rybinaker fanned the final Dairyman to achieve the historic victory.

The Jones setback threw the pennant race into a wild scramble with three teams—the Joneses, Boulevard Gulf Gns and Ch�

Emile-tied in the loss column, and Old Capital Motors and the Bowdrome one game behind in the standings.

Rybinaker outduelled youthful Sal Misasi in this game that ended in almost total darkness. How the players ever managed to see the ball in the final inning was a mystery to the spectators.

Starts Own Rally

With a 6-6 deadlock at the end of the fifth, the clubs battled scorelessly until Rybinaker himself started the Merchants winning thrust in the top of the ninth.

With two out, Rybinaker was sent to third on a wild pitch. Strategy dictated that Stoll and Dunham be walked to set up a play. But the "Tex Brown" beat out a scratch hit to short and the ball game was over. Rybinaker turned back three straight Dairyemen in the last of the ninth.

Misasi, a consistent winner, permitted only seven hits, fanned seven and walked eight. Rybinaker, the work horse, was nipped for ten blows, walked the same number and struck out a half dozen.

Tex Brown and Vince Clearwater accounted for four of the Merchant tallies with two hits apiece. Johnny Berardi, Jones leader, stroked a double and two singles, while Tommy Mahnes and George Zadany each had two safeties.

Athletic Field and Stadium No. 1 Lead K.A.A. Summer Baseball Loops

County Swimmers Vie For Trophies

Four trophies emblematic of Ulster county titles will be awarded winners in the week-end Adirondack A.A.U.-sponsored swimming races on Sunday at 2 p. m. at Sportsman's Park in Rosendale. The four feature events are the 50-yard backstroke and 50-yard breast stroke for men and women. Adirondack A.A.U. officials will handle the races.

The Athletic Field team has taken the lead in the Kingston Athletic Association's Pee Wee League in the summer baseball program's early games with two straight wins.

The latest accomplishment was a 7-0 squeak over Hasbrouck Park with a two-run rally in the fifth, although they collected only four hits off the combine offerings of Red Amato and Frank Turk.

Mike Alecca, son of Tony Alecca, had "4 for 4" for the winners and Tommy "Fibber" Davitt, son of T. Michael Davitt, excelled around first base. Alecca's four hits included a double and triple. Amato whacked a double for the losers. Joe Pino, the winning hurler who yielded nine hits, fanned four.

Major League Roundup

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland is coming strong with Bob Lemon, top pitcher in the majors, showing the way.

Good pitch, good hit. That's the story of Lemon, high man on the Triple crown pole.

When Lemon works, Manager Lou Boudreau feels he has 10 men on his side. The former infielder is an extra man on defense, one of the best fielding pitchers in the game. At bat, he's a dangerous long distance slugger with a .278 average, three home runs and 14 runs batted in.

Lemon became the first major league pitcher to win 13 games this season with a neat three-hit job against the New York Yankees last night. The three-run homer in the eighth was just an added thrill. He didn't need it.

Coming at the start of Cleveland's all-important third eastern trip, it was a vital 5-1 win for the Tribe. They trail Detroit by five games but now are only a half game behind the second place Yankees. Since the Indians hit their stride June 14, they have won 22 of 30, and Lemon has copped six of seven, the last five in a row.

Manager Gall To Display Wares In Tonight's Game

Major League Scouts Will Be Looking On

The lineup

ALBANY
Staucci, ss; Aspromonte, cf; Lanfiero, 2b; Sposa, 1b; Wopnek, rf; Henry, c; Gerard, p.

Colonial
Mangan, c; Bremer, lf; Peple, 2b; Baker, 3b; Walther, ss; Kunkiewicz, p; McKever, p.

Manager Emil Gall plans to use three pitchers in tonight's exhibition contest against the Albany Senators at the Eastern League municipal stadium.

Despite the troubled Colonial League situation, the largest crowd of the season is expected to watch the Colonials in action against the Class A club from the capital city.

Gall said he would like to give Lefty Bill McKever, Johnny Manopoli and Artie Applebaum a chance to show their stuff against the Eastern Leaguers.

"Either one of all of these three kids have a good chance to go well up the ladder in minor league ball," said Gall, "and I hope they are all sharp against the Senators."

Meanwhile, Manager Merrill "Pinkie" May of the Albany club, said he would start his regular lineup against the Colonials.

Tony Kunkiewicz, former Trinity College slinger, will probably start on the mound for the visitors.

The Senators are expected to show a great double play combination in Shortstop Stan Staucci and Second Baseman Fred Lanfiero, a hard hitting outfielder in Clark Henry and one of the best young catchers in minor league ball in Joe Mangan.

Ribner-Dudik State Golf Final

Binghamton, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Lloyd Ribner and Mike Dudik square off today for the 28th state amateur golf championship.

Cool, clear weather was forecast for the 36-hole test at the par-70 Binghamton Country Club course.

Ribner, tournament co-medalist and champion of the Fenway Country Club at White Plains, shot a dead 67 yesterday to defeat Bill Bogle of Poughkeepsie's Dutchess Golf Club, 3 and 2.

Dudik eliminated Paul Kelly, 18-year-old Westchester junior, 1 up in the other semi-final tilt. Dudik carded a 68.

Oliver and Harrison Pace Inverness Golf

Toledo, Ohio, July 15 (AP)—Standings in the 13th Inverness $15,000 Four-Ball matches—tightest in the best-ball event's history—were due for a jumbling today as the high-ups met the low-downs.

At the end of three of the seven match play rounds between the professional, four pairs boasted "minus" scores and four were "plus" for their efforts.

Pudgy Perry of Seattle and slow-talking Dutch Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., were out from with a plus three at the end of three rounds, but just a point behind were Sam Snead-Jim Ferrier and Lloyd Mangrum-Cary Middlecoff combinations, the latter the hottest thing in the tourney.

Proximity's Earnings Reach $200,000 Mark

Proximity now has to earn only $6,082 to match the record $206,462 won by Goldsmith Maid in the Civil War era.

Brecheen, Musial Suffer Injuries

St. Louis, July 15 (AP)—The pennant-driving and injury-ridden St. Louis Cardinals worried today about the condition of two of their stars—Stan Musial and Harry Brecheen.

Both were retired from last night's game with the Philadelphia Phillies. Musial with arenched left knee and Brecheen with a sore pitching arm.

Musial left the contest in the seventh inning after he had slipped in loose dirt while running to first base. It's the same knee that sidelined him for four days earlier in the season.

Stan said afterward it wasn't serious and he believed he'd be able to play in the rubber game with Philadelphia today. But that was the team physician had examined him. The doctor's verdict hasn't been announced.

Brecheen left the game in the fourth inning after giving up six hits. He said his arm soreness may be a result of favoring his left little finger, fractured when struck by a batted ball in New York June 20.

Sign Grid Giants

New York, July 15 (AP)—The New York Giants today signed guard Mario Demarco, rookie of the year at the University of Miami (Fla.), and Carl Butkus, returning tackle.

Warmer Temperatures
Due for Week-End
(By The Associated Press)
Pleasant weather—maybe a little warm in some areas—was in prospect for the nation over the week-end.

The cool air that brought relief to the midwest after several days of hot and humid weather moved into the eastern states yesterday. At the same time, temperatures were a little higher over the central part of the country.

The mercury yesterday climbed to 97 at Philadelphia, 92 at Chardon, Neb., and 92 at Bismarck, N. D. But readings were lower over other midwest areas. The nation's top mark was 118 at Silver Lake, Colo.

Skies generally were clear today. There were showers in the Lake Superior region and thundershowers in the southern states, the eastern plains and the northern Rockies.

Suicide in Po'keepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Edward Heffernan, 49, hanged himself today, police said—the fourth Poughkeepsie city jail prisoner to commit suicide in a cell since February, 1949.

Heffernan's body was found soon after he was jailed on a disorderly conduct charge brought by his wife. He was wearing an undershirt as an improvised rope.

Police Chief George Leadbetter said he knew no way to stop prisoners from committing suicide except posting an officer to watch them constantly. He said he couldn't do that with his present manpower.

Low Readings Chill State; 39 at Oneonta

Albany, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—Chilly New Yorkers woke up this morning to find temperatures had dipped into the 40's, setting new date records at some points.

However, the U. S. Weather Bureau had predicted the sun would send the mercury into the 70's and low 80's today, with more seasonable lows tonight in the 50's and 60's.

Albany's 44 this morning broke the date record of 50 set in 1948, and the 47 reported at Syracuse was one degree below the 1928 record.

The weather bureau said overnight minimums in the upper 50's and lower 60's are normal for this time of year. They blamed the cool breezes on a high pressure mass from Canada centered over the state this morning.

Baschs Bring Action Against Gordon Switz

Summons and complaints have been filed with the Ulster county clerk in actions instituted in the Supreme Court by Daniel Basch and Louis Basch against Gordon Switz, all of Hurley.

Both Louis and Daniel Basch seek damages in the sum of $5,000 for malicious prosecution and in addition, Daniel Basch seeks $5,000 damages for an alleged assault.

The actions are the outcome of an alleged assault which took place in the town of Hurley on the 7th of May, this year. Gordon Switz, had previously commenced suit against the Baschs for damages said to have resulted from the altercation. Each of the parties had filed informations before a justice of the peace.

The present complaint alleges that as a result of the information made by Gordon Switz, both Louis and Daniel Basch were arrested and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Roger H. Loughran and then released on bail; that subsequently they were discharged when the defendant, Gordon Switz, withdrew the information.

In the case of Daniel Basch, it is also alleged that he was willfully and maliciously assaulted by the defendant, Switz, as a result of which he was personally injured. Cashin and Ewig appear for the plaintiffs in the action.

Another Appeal Is Made to Marinara Girl to Come Back

"Wherever she is, we will come for her," the sister of a missing Kingston teen-age girl said today after a possible lead was unavoidably missed last night.

Mrs. Anne Abbate, sister of the missing Mildred Marinara of 49 West O'Reilly street, renewed her appeal for her sister to contact her because her mother is ill and needs the younger sister at home. Last night, a telephone call was received by Mrs. Anne Abbate from a girl whom she believes was Mildred, although that name was not given. An appointment was made to meet at a certain place. Mrs. Abbate said, however, Mrs. Abbate explained today that since she is not well acquainted here, she arrived late at the meeting place, and no one was there. Mrs. Abbate said the reason she was late was that she could not find the place immediately.

Fearing that the younger girl may have misinterpreted her non-appearance, Mrs. Abbate asked today for a second chance.

Mildred Marinara left her home Tuesday evening, possibly to elope with James Richard Rodman, 19, who has been boarding there. Mrs. Abbate reported on Friday. Whether they are married or not, Mrs. Abbate promised they would face no serious consequences if they return home.

Reds Alert More Troops

Hong Kong, July 15 (AP)—Pro-Nationalist newspapers here today asserted the entire Fourth Field Army of Communist China has been ordered moved to Manchuria—next to the Korean zone—by the end of July. All this week, there have been repeated reports of troops moving north but the unit was not specified previously. The Fourth is described as the "mother unit" of North Korean veterans of the Chinese civil war who now are reported spearheading the invasion of South Korea.

Sergeant Says . . .

terribly lit the area.

Spattering raindrops drove two newsmen under a tent flap where one lighted a cigarette. A voice cracked:

"Watch those lights. The guys on the ack-ack guns say they've been sniped at eight times in the past few minutes."

"Roger," was the reply.

The voice moved into the tent then, for one of those long-remembered incidents which brighten war—like the sudden flash of a smile on a dusty, half-remembered face in a jeep column or the swift burst of relief when a zooming fighter flips a wing to reveal our markings.

"I know this damned war was coming," the voice said. "I knew it back in August, 1945. Grandpa told me. He told all us kids."

Except for one brief moment when the speaker cupped a light to his cigarette, the reporters did not see his features. Nor did they hear his name. He was an ordinary kid, bundled in a clumsy raincoat with a rifle slung over his shoulder.

Was Indian Fighter

"Grandpa is pretty smart. He's an old Indian fighter, he fought Geronimo. He reads the newspapers every day and listens to the radio and gets just what he wants out of 'em. We had a kind of family reunion after I was discharged after the war and he said he was sorry to have to say it but his grandchildren were going to have to fight again. He said the next one would make the fight against the Japs look like a picnic. 'So I wasn't surprised when we came over here. I figured if we had to have a war we might as well get started with it. I learned what it's like since I came to this place. I help unload and load airplanes. 'Some casualties?' asked a reporter.

The Doughboy drew a long, scarlet drag on the cigarette.

"Yeah, Boy, some of those guys got guts."

The cigarette jabbed at a distant row of lights in a barracks at the other end of the field.

"There's a bunch of guys in there just back from the front. They really took a beating up there. But every man has asked to go back up again—and I'd like to go with 'em."

Then the radio sergeant called out that he had made contact. The newsmen walked out of the tent toward the radio set. The voice followed them, thinning to a whisper in darkness and rain:

"See you later."

Reds Spread . . .

were that between 1,000 and 2,000 foot soldiers made the initial crossing.

They apparently spread rapidly over an extensive area.

There was little available information on the situation in the center of the Kum river line. But evidently American forces there were holding.

Small arms in the hands of U. S. soldiers repelled three attempted crossings by Communists in posts. An attempted crossing Friday which the Americans smashed was made by about a company of Red soldiers trying to walk across the ruins of a blown bridge.

The Reds lost heavily in sharp artillery and small arms duels.

The first crossing was made about 20 miles northwest of Taejon. Taejon was the provisional capital of South Korea after Seoul fell.

Wear U. S. Fatigues

The Reds, some wearing American fatigues, attacked in overwhelming force. They overran one American artillery unit. There was no indication of the fate of the artillerymen.

Earlier General MacArthur said the American and South Korean forces were withdrawing before superior forces. He said they were fighting rearguard actions awaiting reinforcements.

MacArthur called the Communist bridgehead a setback for the United Nations defenders. But he added there "was no cause for alarm."

Replies Awaited

Costa Rica, for instance, was not asked because, one U. N. official said, the country's constitution forbids an army. However, they all are expected to chip in some supplies and other evidence of aid.

India, whose delegate recently told newsmen that India could not send troops to Korea, was among those asked directly for soldiers.

Plans Third Class In Ceramics Work

Summer classes in ceramics for children of school age in Marbletown have proven so popular that a third class will be arranged, it was learned today.

Originally, two classes were planned, one for younger children on Thursday mornings from 10 to 12 o'clock, and the other for older children from 1 to 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Starting Thursday, July 20, there will be a third class from 3 to 5 o'clock, also on Thursdays. Classes are limited to 10 students.

Miss Alice Dunbar of Lombontville is instructor of the classes, which are sponsored by the Marbletown Recreation Committee. Instruction and preliminary work is given at the Stone Ridge Reformed Church. The firing and glazing will be done by Miss Dunbar at her studio in Lombontville.

The classes meet for seven weeks. Early instructions now being given include mixing the material to the right consistency and getting air bubbles out. Mrs. Gertrude Holtz is director of the recreation work and Mrs. Bernice Schlemowitz is chairman of the recreation committee.

assets grew from $2,500 in 1944 to more than $75,000 six years later, Sullivan explained that he had bought property for $7,500 and sold it later for $25,000 and that he had "earned more than $30,000."

Schine said he twice had tried to clean looking out of his hotel but it didn't work.

Customer pressure forced him to put in bookies in the Roney Plaza, he added.

"If you are going to let a book out, you want somebody responsible who will run it quietly," Schine said.

Governor Good Salesman
Wolfson said his contribution to Warren's campaign was "substantially in excess of $150,000." The money was given, he explained, because Warren was a good salesman for the state.

Triffin, who split with Warren after he was fired by the governor as chief investigator of Florida, said his $150,000 contribution was his own money and he therefore could "spend it any way I wanted to."

He did not explain when he was fired by the governor.

Abe Gold, a man, white-haired former Dade county sheriff, testified that Deputy Sheriff Tom Burke told him.

"If you ain't gettin' any, I'll take you and show you a couple of joints. There's enough for all of us."

He was asked what was meant by "getting any."

"Money," Goldman replied.

The day following an abortive raid on a bookie joint, Goldman testified, Sheriff Sullivan called him and told the "force was to be reduced," and he was fired.

administration may ask for an additional $6,000,000,000, partly to finance operations in Korea and partly to reinforce the country's military might generally. While some administration circles said the request went a little high, the figure was expected to be fairly substantial.

Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) told reporters he had been assured by administration officials that some National Guard men and some reservists will be called into the armed forces soon.

Among administration leaders the expectation now is that Mr. Truman will decide in the next few days precisely what lines of action he will take.

Bohan Endorsed

retary of the Ulster County Civil Service Department, 32 Main street, prior to entering this field, he was a supervising salesman for one of the nation's largest concerns, furnishing building materials. His home prior to 1930 was in Scarsdale.

Outside of Legion affairs, the one accomplishment he's extremely proud of is having helped raise $3,000 for the 1947 Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's convention when it was held in Port Ewen.

Tom has a daughter, Mary, studying for her Master's degree at New York University, and a son, Lt. Norman C. Bohan serving on the U.S.S. Salem in the Mediterranean. After his graduation from Annapolis Naval Academy, Norman took part in the invasion of Normandy.

Lifeguard Slays Wife During Fight

Long Beach, N. Y., July 15 (AP)—A six-foot lifeguard was quoted by police early today as saying he must have beaten his wife to death during a drunken argument.

The woman, Mrs. Gertrude Daly, 30, was found dead on the floor of her apartment (170 E. Broadway) here shortly after midnight. She was bleeding from nose and mouth.

A few minutes before, her tanned, strapping husband, John Arnold Daly, also 30, had gone to a neighbor's apartment in the same building and asked for police because his wife "was sick."

Investigating officers found Mrs. Daly beaten about the head. They said a doctor in the apartment building, Perry J. Knott, pronounced her dead.

Daly, whose regular business is selling insurance, works as a week-end life guard for the city of Long Beach.

Detective Inspector Stuyvesant Fennell and Assistant District Attorney David Holman said Daly told them he had struck her with his fists in some "trivial argument." He said he could not remember the exact cause of the quarrel, they added.

He was booked on a charge of first degree manslaughter and held for further questioning.

Daly's four children were in the apartment during the quarrel. Police said at least the eldest, age 8, saw the beating.
